Libbey Glass punch bowl,
Kimberly pattern. (c. 1894)

The logo for the glass City Café is based upon a "Hobstar". The Hobstar is probably the most frequently seen design element in Cut Glass. The "Hob" is the raised portion in the center. Toledo's Libbey Glass used Hobstars in many of their designs during the American Cut Glass Period (1876-1917), and recently introduced it into one of their recent products, The Hobstar Line. A sample of this piece can be seen in the cabinet near the front window.
